

Supplemental and Evidence

The apostate system appear to remain in “[chaos] mode” but evidently are investing the brunt of ‘their’ organizational efforts, and quite a literal overt body count, into presenting one comparatively large narrative on a non-overt basis rather than the now-usual sequence of minor ones. As the organization’s manifest position continues to be in error and they continue to invest in it, I should present that openly and publicly. What is more, in this particular instance those efforts have resulted in some evidence which allows even the bottom-rung franchise ‘rank and file’ personnel to recognize what’s going on here. When I use that constructively it should enable Me to establish the credibility necessary as a prerequisite for genuine, legitimate support enabling us all to sort this out in accordance with Divine Will and True Nature.

The first is the non-overt effort for a narrative that the more stereotypical ‘organized crime’ groups are ostensibly ‘supporting Me in the effort to illegitimately overthrow the incumbent apostate system regime’. Waitasec, My attempting to co-align with those groups to sort everything out was more or less ‘where we came in’ here. We found that they were actually franchises of the apostate system and the fact that they refused to actually get onto a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis was the absolute deal-breaker. That remains a constant.

Current events

The proliferation of ‘organized crime’ symbolism throughout the international news came at about the same time as My last exposure release (‘Diagnostics and Corrections’) and for a moment I was concerned that some of My inadvertent wording in that had been misinterpreted. I noticed however that the trend had started to present itself at least a day before I’d published it. Examples include the [“Ukrainian \[war\] \[wedding\]”](#) piece that was picked up by a lot of the major consolidated media, the more recent [“Mariupol \[maternity\] \[hospital\] \[bed\]”](#) item, and plenty of straining towards ‘organized crime’ symbolism by wording from politicians and journalists throughout the international media between about [March sixth] to at least [March tenth] as I write this up. Practically anyone can do a date-range search of the news for that period. Meaning that anyone who’s only just familiar with their lower-level drug symbolism will be able to see that the trend there starts at about that time, makes a sharp increase, and presumably will subside when it’s replaced by something else. Obviously the international news is hardly the place we’d usually find an emphasis on non-overt symbolism relevant to procuring recreational substances, ordinarily.

Accompanying this we had Mr. Jorge Bergoglio (whose stage name is ‘Pope Francis’) on March sixth putting out what appeared to be ‘heavy metal lyrics’ in St. Peter’s Square. I can only assume he presented them in the loud, deep, growling and gravelly voice appropriate to such lyrics. In the full text of his address we also see him using the same “This is [madness]!” symbolic trope the consolidated media have been using with regard to Putin’s alleged mental state, and this is standard organizing symbolism as used by supposed ‘resistance efforts’ contrived and proffered by the apostate system in an effort to ‘sell’ others on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. As if to emphasize this we also have his “[river] of [blood] and [tears]” symbolism. In addition to [water] indicating a non-overt situation and its shape a [Tiamat] deployment indicating a counter-Divine Will basis, and the [red] and [white] indicating a co-mingling of a supposedly valid Divine Will-aligned basis ([white]) with an invalid, counter-Divine Will basis ([red]), a “river” also has particular emphasis and relevance with regard to intravenous opioid injection so associated with the more conventional ‘organized crime’ franchises, with which Mr. Bergoglio’s franchise is of course aligned. (The interview for that should be still accessible here.)

It’s quite naturally and phenomenally hypocritical for those who continue subscribing to a system on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, or even just continuing to retain a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis all on their own individually, to proclaim to the public, ‘This is unconscionable! Stop this at once!’ But that’s precisely the kind of [absurd] ‘virtue-signaling’ the apostate system personnel have been doing for ages. When of course they’re not busy actively promoting the unconscionable, while their ‘opposite number’ franchise clamor on about how unconscionable that is. Meanwhile we have collusive personnel getting all the attention for supposedly being ‘against’ such awful things, even while they remain complicit in the very organization and positions which propagate them. Those who’ve genuinely ‘pulled clear’ of those and strive to equip others to do so have manifestly gone largely unheard and marginalized.

It was the apostate system which incited Putin's recent military activities and much-hyped spontaneous irrationality. That is the same apostate system for which Mr. Bergoglio is working and whose agendas he is serving. It therefore is a matter of concern that Mr. Bergoglio recently made a personal visit to the Russian embassy to the Vatican regarding its war against the Ukraine. Not to stop it presumably, since they're both agents of the same apostate system which organized it. As the Wall Street Journal put it, 'It is unusual for a pope, as a head of state, to travel to a foreign embassy for such a meeting.' As the Washington Post mentioned, 'Usually, popes receive ambassadors and heads of state in the Vatican, and diplomatic protocol would have called for the Vatican foreign minister to summon the Russian ambassador. ... Vatican officials said they knew of no such previous papal initiative.' So this is unprecedented in recent geopolitical history; the Vatican and specifically the papacy is getting directly involved again with international geopolitics and mediating disputes. Those are disputes specifically designed and crafted by the apostate system, mind. So we're seeing what appears to be the apostate system implementing a new trend of starting a political dispute, then sending 'its own' personnel to 'solve' it. We've also been hearing quite a lot of hype and concern over the supposed possibility of an overt nuclear exchange, something which quite logically would be interpreted as a threat to everyone's way of life internationally. In a hypothetical situation in which the Vatican was publicly regarded as having successfully mediated in an international geopolitical conflict and to have averted a nuclear exchange, this would presumably increase the public's estimation of the Vatican as well as the public willingness to accept its future direct involvement in international politics. The general public acceptance of the Vatican as 'the legitimate moral leader in politics' and 'the only hope we've got to achieve international peace' would have been restored, a thing it hasn't been able to accomplish since the Protestant Reformation exposed some of its fundamental hypocrisies. This would be a matter of concern. Not only because it would directly violate fairness via collusion and public fraud (Common Law: 'Nul prendra advantage de son tort demesne.' 'No one shall take advantage of his own wrong.'), but also because the apostate system isn't supposed to be expanding and consolidating 'its' organizational clout while the dispute between whether its recognized incumbent or Myself have the greater alignment with Divine Will, and thus Divine Will-derived authority, remains unresolved. I hasten to emphasize that it has not clearly done that with this, yet. It just appeared given the situation that a constructive and pre-emptive reminder about it was in order.

'Square One'

Next comes a bit of evidence that will require some explanation first. Suppose you're Me. The consolidated media are collusive with the various agendas of the apostate system, and the telepaths and propheciers make sure that whatever media content you watch or listen to is usually going to be retroactively 'adjusted' so the symbolic implications are relevant to whatever the organization is attempting to 'sell' you currently. When it comes to a sincere desire to enjoy media just for its own sake recreationally (and perhaps, in fairness, to get a better familiarity with the organizing symbolism and the agendas of the time), what do you do? Readers will recall that I'd mentioned that My "House" uses the symbol of [numbers] to reference a purely overt mode of speaking, because humans weren't designed to be mere walking, breathing symbol-processing calculators and life is certainly more than that. So with the ostensibly 'non-symbolically relevant' mode the apostate system have been implying they're on this year (not that the overt situations it's been manufacturing are particularly worthwhile either), I'd looked for media content that I'd genuinely enjoy, but which were the most dissociated from anything symbolically relevant. And I mentally associated to something I hadn't seen in quite a while but had thoroughly enjoyed, a series called 'Square One Television'. It started back in the Eighties and was public television's answer to 'Saturday Night Live', or perhaps children's mathematics educational television 'on crack'. Alright, sure, why not. With My literal time being wasted by the apostate system I got the episodes still remaining for genuine nostalgia value and decided it would also help Me remember that whatever's coming out of the apostate system is on an entirely spurious basis. I watched My way through them, converted the rest to audio and there was My overtly useful mental distraction and respite from what's going on currently, to enjoy while I did the hamestead farm chores. I'd not seen the whole series while it was on. Besides, I was contemplating its 'edutainment' formula to make learning about Divine Will principles more enjoyable for people, eventually.

All was quite well there until just the other day, when I'd listened My way through to season three, episodes nine and ten. Suddenly the non-overt symbolism which has been quite irrelevant became an inundation of very current, relevant symbolism applicable to what the apostate system is doing right now, in the moment. Thanks to the control of the apostate system and the retroactive capabilities of 'their' telepaths and propheciers, this has happened so frequently around Me that it's nothing particularly new or exciting. But as it's relevant here I thought I'd present it, purely and exclusively as evidence. While much of the sketches are re-used throughout the series each episode usually has a few that are 'new', and here they're mainly the 'Math-A-Thon' items starting at [6:02] and [8:59] in those episodes respectively, and the 'MATHNET' segments beginning at [16:07] and [13:57]. And we saw these zany, usually stimulant-oriented people do a sudden veer towards the symbolism of the 'organized crime' groups, as well as try to 'sell' Me on getting involved with the supposed, modern-day effort for an organized crime 'resistance effort against the apostate system's incumbent regime'.

The 'Math-A-Thon' sketches were a take on the usual public broadcasting station 'pledge drives', with the [telephones] representing either the 'organized crime' groups as a standard reference, or the Babylonian Kabbalists' [Tiamut] symbol indicating a counter-Divine Will basis non-overtly implemented as another common reference. A [pledge] is a [promise], which again represents either a commitment made to 'organized crime' groups or, per the Babylonian Kabbalists' system, a commitment to their various new agendas via the derivative symbolism from the Roman idol [Fidus]. Additionally the various 'phone bank' personalities used, along with so much of Lorry's wording, makes for an emphatically current-events relevant bunch of symbolism; for those familiar with both the non-overt lingo and the present situation it fairly 'shouts' it out at you. Of course for those merely familiar with the lingo watching it back when it came out, it wouldn't seem particularly out of the ordinary because they'd lack the context of the modern situation. We even have some instances of [katsune] symbolism going on there, for example with 'Tricky Dick Nixon', Lorry's bit about George Bush and his [lies], George Washington's [bridge] the [black-and-white] of Michael Jackson, and the otherwise-nondescript [twins] manning the phone bank. Also with the [up] and [down] regarding the ladder.

The 'MATHNET' segments are of course a parody of the classic 'DRAGONET' series, and featured a sequence that started on Mondays and completed on Fridays. Some of the episodes of this week's series have been lost to time, but what we get with this one are [letters] (symbolizing a counter-Divine Will basis via [Tiamut] [in container]) of [predictions] (the purview of the telepaths and propheciers) from an ostensibly Indonesian swami with a [Tiamut]-shaped turban and a [red] accent piece over his [third eye] (again, symbolic of the telepaths and propheciers). A 'scam' would be another [katsune] derivative symbol as would the [black-and-white] theater attendee outfits as well as Kate's [madd] outfit, Benny's [taxicab] and indeed the [male]+[female] symbolism implied by George's [cross-dressing]. We also get a definite emphasis on [France] via the [French madd] outfit, the [statuary] mentioned in one of the openings, the [theater], and the numerous musical references in the closing scene. Of particular interest is the swami's calling card and name: he's 'Swami Riverr', the son of 'Old Man Riverr'. Plainly held for a full-screen effect, that word "Riverr" again. Just as Mr. Bergoglio had used the other day, the symbolism of which I've already mentioned. Here though we have two of them, one young and the other 'old'. That's another [katsune] reference. And its repetition both in archived media and current news made it relevant and noticeable enough that I knew I had to present it as public evidence. Pretty curious, having to present a parody of 'DRAGONET' as, itself, evidence of wrongdoing, but here we manifestly are. Additionally while "riverr" would reference a counter-Divine Will position on a non-overt basis, George's [cane] would represent a counter-Divine Will position on an overt basis. Overt and non-, [earth] and [water], just as I'd described in My last. On the Babylonian Kabbalist 'layer' the Indonesian symbolic connotations of the 'swami' would usually signify a purportedly 'inverted' basis, as a derivative of the [cw] symbol itself one of the associated symbols of the idol [Hera]. And typically on such an alleged 'inverted' basis it's become custom for practitioners to 'overlook' counter-Divine Will connotations inherent in the message as 'neutralized' by the 'inverted' basis, leaving us supposedly with just 'overt' and 'non-overt'. But of course that's insufficient. Also worth noticing is that Ms. Elmira is shown drinking [milk], another symbolic reference both to the idol [Hera] and a just-as-standard-as-you-can-get reference 'lower layer' reference to 'organized crime', or rather to the opiates on which it has acquired a veritable stranglehold monopoly ever since the apostate system implemented a rather convenient 'Prohibition' against them to the common man legally.

It was this evidence, particularly the "riveter", that caused the situation as non-overtly advertised to 'click' into place for Me (since I've had to discount practically everything the apostate or is supposed 'resistance effort' purport to be doing, for reason of the inherently non-credible and illegitimate nature of a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis), and when I knew I ought to present it as public evidence. We now have the 'organized crime' franchises and the telepaths and propheciers non-credibly professing their support to My cause to get the People and the organization back into alignment with Divine Will and True Nature, and to signal as much they're still directly defying My standards and requirements with regard to an actually Divine Will-aligned basis. Adding mere psi-nics into the mix doesn't suddenly legitimize that; it's still invalid and illegitimate and I'm still incredulous.

What's more, we also have evidence now that the telepaths and propheciers are still retroactively tinkering and diddling with stuff despite remaining on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. Rather than sorting everything out yet, they're retroactively engineering still more hazy narratives. And that's still 'dissing' Me, because not only are they still manifestly rejecting My standards with regard to Divine Will, they're also directly defying My concerns about whatever altering events in the past could do to indirectly worsen things in the present via 'the butterfly effect'. So while being pretty blatantly disloyal and disrespectful to both Divine Will and to Myself, they're non-overtly implying something about supposed loyalty to Me and to My cause. You know, Divine Will and True Nature. Those things they're directly defying. How nice.

I'm not sure whether I'll continue watching the series from here. I suppose I could just discontinue it and find something else. Again. Until they screw with that one too. It's as if, while continuing on its manifestly-Chosen counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, the apostate system have to encroach upon anything and everything. It's not appreciated, and a continued quality-of-life detriment. Just about everything I get into gets eventually shoved aside in preference for the absurd priorities of the apostate system and its ongoing Choice for a meaningless counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis.

'Fraggle Rock'

Next, the new 'Fraggle Rock' was announced practically everywhere including on the international news to which I keep current. I had a morbid curiosity as to what they'd do either with or to the series, and finally got around to watching it through. It was mostly alright, with some definite moments, but had a few new counter-Divine Will and agenda-motivated components thrown in. The counter-Divine Will [hexagons] in the doozer buildings, Uncle Mutt's newly-acquired arrogance, his tendency to 'accidentally-on-purpose' screw things up, and his increased interaction with the 'silly creatures' were letdowns. Many of the characters were significantly more 'neggy' than they'd been, which I suppose is definitely 'modernizing' the series for an audience which has proportionally 'bought into' a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis more by now. The 'sacredness' of the interaction between the 'perhaps real, perhaps not' fraggles and the humans which the original series had reserved for the very end was used so flagrantly it was more or less cheapened, and the apostate system's 'eco-' and 'celebrate diversity' agendas were promoted so hard they were discouraging to encounter. It's always unworthy to have overt content and quality used as a mere show-horse, an expedient utility, for non-overt symbolism and apostate system agendas and rhetoric. And the frequency of unpleasant situations and disasters was definitely up from the original series. Beyond that it had its moments, and more or less managed to remain true to the version provided by Jim Henson and his team. In a 'time line gone right' situation, if we ever get it, I'd be very eager to work with him and see what the man's intense benevolent positivity and technical creativity could bring to a comprehensive reformatting of the apostate system in alignment with Divine Will and True Nature. Particularly given that with the capabilities of the telepaths and propheciers, if they ever get onto a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis, mean that temporal limitations needn't be limits and we could interoperate 'remotely'. I also think it would be quite an easy matter to have extended his lifespan. It also begs the question of just how many people with his caliber of talents were out there throughout recorded history and just never 'got noticed', because we're going to need to notice and to apply that kind of talent. If the apostate system ever Choose to get into alignment with Divine Will and with True Nature that is. It would be so nice to have a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned 'apostate' system that had been more, er, 'Henson-esque'. And researching the man it's clear that he genuinely enjoyed the technical challenge of implementing 'nice things'. It's disturbing to have the apostate system presenting cozy things like the new 'Fraggle Rock' while simultaneously presenting things like the Russian-Ukrainian atrocity and various other militarized oppressions internationally. Jim Henson set about creating the original series as a 'show for kids that would end war', presumably by providing the moral 'life lessons' and parenting that's been subverted away from society by the apostate system. Those are solidly and fundamentally incompatible positions.

Per Babylonian Kabbalist symbolism 'Fraggle Rock' always was a pretty clear indicator of [water] + [earth]. This was hyperemphasized with the new series. But the finale plot crammed into the last two episodes made the non-overt narrative the apostate system have been presenting just 'click'. In Christian symbolism, which they've been purporting again recently to be using, a [tr[] represents a person, and this one was [up] and [down] in the last few episodes. A major pl[]t po[]nt was also about its [r[]ts] (another [Tiam[]t] derivative symbol) and whether they'd 'sl[]rp up yucky p[]llution'. The [p[]llution] was additionally [p[]nk], which is again that [r[]d] + [white] co-m[]ngled, symbolically. And we had a major, 'Un[]ted Nations'-esque bunch of rhetoric about, 'All of us together can overcome this situation!' In My post-watch internal critique of the new series that's one of the major non-overt errors that stood out to Me; the whole po[]nt is that it's not 'all of us together' that can sort all this out. That's been an ego- and numbers-based position the apostate system has manifestly been taking throughout all this. It's an alignment with Divine Will and True Nature which can sort all this out. Indeed, it appears to be the only thing that can. And that's what's been manifestly lacking all along. We're not even truly 'us' without Divine Will and True Nature. So the rhetoric that's been put out so much red[]ces to 'nothing at all, combined all together, can overcome this situation!' You see how that works? It's a rhetoric formula the apostate system has devised to fa[]l, knowingly and quite deliberately. Organizationally, it knows this can't be overcome without Divine Will and True Nature, and it appears to have specifically designed the situation to ensure just that. Which is rather a s[]gnificant 'tell' of the apostate system's genuine motives, however much of a credit to it that is while it's manifestly been working in direct opposition to them all this time.

Summary

Does the inherently defective messaging that, 'All of us together can overcome this situation!' at all sound familiar to anyone? If so, it's likely because that's exactly the scenario which the apostate system has been 'selling' via the Russia-Ukraine situation. Consider the narrative: 'Suddenly, for no reason at all, Putin flips his lid. Now he's gone mad! He's a monster! We all have to work together to stop him! Sanctions and corporate pullouts and sociopolitical activism and exclusion from the financial system and even snubbing and ostracizing ordinary Russian citizens wherever we encounter them!' That's the same messaging. It's collectivism. And as per usual, it's collectivism instead of Divine Will principles and True Nature. Indeed, collectivism is the furthest thing from Divinely-conferred rights, saying that those need to be violated or disregarded whenever the collective demands it. Collectivism is just the ideological equivalent of a 'rampaging mob' with about as much stability and civility. Or justice and quality of life for that matter. It says the individual exists to serve the society as a whole, rather than the whole justification of having a society is to uphold the Divinely-conferred rights of the individual, all individuals. And that's the position the apostate system, on its manifestly counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, has been adopting throughout its organizational lifespan: the agendas of the organization can and should override the Divinely-conferred rights of the individuals comprising it. 'Obviously.' Because supposedly the organization is 'more important' than Divine Will and True Nature. That's what it's manifestly been saying through its behavior all along.

And that's exactly what it appears to be trying to sell me on, with the non-overt equivalent of the Russia-Ukraine situation. 'Oh Em Gee, the apostate system's incumbent regime has, with no sincere motive at all, flipped its collective lid and has become a monster! It needs to be resisted collectively, and the first casualty of that resistance needs to be Divine Will principles and True Nature! Because expediency! Don't worry about principle, with collectivism and superior numbers we can all sort this out! With clout!'

It's not always easy to know when someone's deliberately going for [absurdity] to make a statement, when the entire career of the organization they represent has manifestly been [absurd]. I'd certainly like to think they're deliberately striving for [irony] there, though of course that doesn't improve the overt nor the non-overt situation at present. It'd be nice to think their usage of [blue] represented that, although it again doesn't improve much for the nonce. While they manifestly remain on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, they, er, remain on an invalid basis. I didn't invent that, if anyone's curious.

There's one rather strained interpretation of all this symbolically as, 'These people are [pledging] their loyalty to a [katsune] on a counter-Divine Will basis. And the [katsune] symbol 'inverts' the counter-Divine Will, into a Divine Will-aligned basis!' I mean that would be the 'nicest' read of all this, but the very point here is that Divine Will can't be 'inverted' or you just get wrongdoing, made manifest. We can see this from the current manifest state of the place.

No, we regrettably still have bupkis, manifestly.

The military-intelligence-led 'troother' propaganda contingent, who purport to use symbolic 'inversion', have 'of course' been presenting the very opposite of all this, selling Putin by coming on effectively like a children's breakfast cereal commercial. 'Putin's great! Russia's great! Ukraine and the West are wrong, because they're run by the nifferous Deep State! Putin will save us all, and he even stays crispy in milk!' Overt information for those among the 'troothers' who are unfamiliar with Putin and seem to find that he's effectively some new figure who's just emerged upon the geopolitical stage, he came to power in the wake of the major bombing of an apartment block in Ryazan, and rise through the ranks of the KGB and FSB evidently because he's the appointed 'poster child' of the Chabad-Lubavitch Zionist 'End Times' cult, a franchise of the apostate system that's been tasked with faux-fulfilling many of the 'end times' prophecies of the world's major religions.

Right, so if the pattern holds we'll presumably have all manner of other 'lower-level' franchises ostensibly [pledging] supposed 'fealty to the cause', with the Knights of Malta likely next. In fact as I write this the start of the organizing symbolism for such a thing appears to just be starting to proliferate. That would mean that 'lower franchise personnel' who are familiar with the symbolism used for recreational stimulants, etc. would soon notice their franchises' symbolism briefly predominating the international news, political and papal speeches and journalistic phrasing.

Readers should keep in mind that what the apostate system are manifestly doing is manifesting, er, 'imperfection' from a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis and just modulating it as this or that on an invalid non-overt basis, and even on a patently invalid overt basis too. It hardly matters what that Choice for a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis 'is modulated like', because it's manifestly still wrongdoing. I think I have a plain and humble Duty per Divine Will to present the evidence of that while they're still committing wrongdoing, and as a nicety and courtesy also strive to assist them by providing correctional information. And if nothing else we can then know that the organization is aware of it; just continuing to do it regardless is therefore knowing, Willful and avoidable. That's culpability.

I've had the telepaths and propheciers intimate to Me that the apostate system is 'actually intensely busy implementing the transition of recognized authority' while all this is happening. As much as I definitely care about the people involved here, I should make clear the position into which that puts Me with regard to Divine Will and Duty. Consider: They've spent a lot of time forcibly (and often criminally) getting Me to acknowledge that what's presented on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis cannot be officially 'heard' because it derives from a basis which is fundamentally illegitimate. Now they and the apostate system appear to expect Me to accept inherently non-credible reassurances implied from such a basis. That's clearly a non-starter, they've made sure of that, and yet that is the situation to which they've manifestly relegated Me.

It just doesn't seem right that an organization which ostensibly was established 'to uphold and promote Divine Will' has been manifestly, shamefully transgressing against it, and when someone like Myself brings that to its attention and calls for accountability or correction it takes years while it continues to do so, and then intensifies what it's doing by 'offing' what presumably are innocent civilians en masse. Its response appears to be just 'babbling' on an inherently non-credible counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature overtly and non-, while trying to 'sell Me' on some narrative which is just as non-credible. Its latest efforts just coming in appear to be to intensify the 'disrespectful' (read: abusive and rights-violating) behavior of 'its' personnel in an apparent effort to 'sell Me' on the idea that they've decided more [fight] is appropriate, either because I've 'bought into' something on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, or perhaps to instead 'sell' the narrative more convincingly that 'the apostate system incumbent has just gone utterly mad!' In actual practice, the apostate system in its current state presents as a sort of machine specifically designed to transgress against Divinely-conferred rights and diminish quality of life. Sure, it's been implied (from that inherently non-credible counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis it's been Choosing) that 'eventually' there'll be accountability or correction, perhaps both. In this years-long interim however there has yet to be either, and that's surely just not right. Neither I nor the People can 'eat I.O.U.s', and I can't even currently take the case into an overt court of law because the apostate system has manifestly subverted them away (Common Law: 'No one shall take advantage of his own wrong').

This was something of a 'rush job' of an exposure release on My part, in order to present relevant information and clarity in accordance with a release date that would nevertheless remain clear with regard to My Choice for a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis. I don't put a lot of confidence into numbers and numerology Myself, but the apostate system do and I do put a lot of stock into maintaining a blatantly clear and legitimate position, and presenting as such. It doesn't look from here as though there will be a lot of numerologically-appropriate date windows in the near future with regards to more releases, so I'll likely forgo them for at least a few months. I trust that won't be misinterpreted; I'm striving for the utmost clarity here with regard to My Choice of position.
